News conference with Frank Edwards UFO investigator and Newsman Frank Edwards is usually the one everyone wants to talk about first, regarding June 24th. Before there was Coast to Coast AM with Art Bell and George Noory, there was Frank Edwards of the Mutual Network, with one of the earliest late night national radio talk shows exploring mysterious topics. He called his program, "Stranger than Science," and covered everything from Bigfoot to UFOs. It became so successful that his first book from renegade publisher Lyle Stuart was Stranger than Science in 1959, chuck full of information on cryptozoology as well as ufology.
